The new Marlon Dining Chair receives iF Design Award 2018

The new Marlon Dining Chair in solid wood has received the internationally famed iF Design Award 2018! This is the second iF Award for the Marlon Collection after receiving it for the Marlon Lounge Chair in 2015.

The Marlon Solid Wood Dining Chair is completely made by hand in Germany, in solid wood, also the seat and the swung back. The chair's outstanding characteristics are the wide and deep back rest, as well as its generously sized seat. The seat as well as the back rest have a complex ergonomic shape, which results in an unparalleled seating comfort. The Marlon Solid Wood Chair combines both: a correct posture while having a meal, as well as relaxed positions for those long talks at the table afterwards.

The chair is available in various wood and colour versions: American walnut, European maple, oak, oak stained in four colours: White, Aqua, Petrol, and Black. Please see all versions here:

The Marlon Collection is designed by the Munich-based designer Alexander Rehn.

About Axel Veit

Axel Veit is AXEL VEIT

For over 25 years the design, production, and distribution of high end furniture is his great passion.

At the renowned German furniture brands Classicon and Garpa he was in charge of product development, marketing and sales as executive vice president. He started his self-employment more than 10 years ago with the exclusive distribution of such high end American home furnishings brands as William Haines Designs, Giati Designs, Dunbar and Sutherland.

The idea of developing his own collection has been ripening in him for quite some years. The crucial kick came with the meeting of the young designer Alexander Rehn at the Salone Satellite in 2013.
